

THE SPORTS FAN MINDSET 2015

February 2015

THE SPORTS FAN MINDSET 2015

Two Minute Take-Aways

- NFL, NCAA Football and MLB remain most popular, while the NHL and NBA are Neck and Neck.
- NCAA Football surges in popularity while MMA takes a hit. Boxing and horse racing continue to struggle
- Walking and fitness top recreational sports as cycling reaches parity with running/ jogging. Basketball continues to decline.
- Fan evaluations of commissioners show Silver posting a stellar rookie performance, while MLB's Selig goes out on a high note. Goodell's evaluation suffers after a season of scrutiny.
- Fan are not fully sold on the College Football Playoff's ability to crown a true champion; reject college athlete pay for play; bristle at conference musical chairs.
- MLB fans are bullish on instant replay and continue to lament player movement.

Two Minute Take-Aways (continued)

- NBA fans see slight improvement in competitive balance, while not supporting the notion of "one and done" college players
- NFL fans remain concerned with concussions but many are still willing to "take the risk." They show strong aversion to a European based NFL team
- Fans show concern with off-field NFL player conduct and are more optimistic of Marcus Mariotta's future success compared to Jameis Winston.
- Some signs of greater sports fan consumer confidence and greater faith in the labor market, but caution persists.
- Information overload remains a reality as fans gravitate more to the live game experience and quality time with the family.

The Concussions Contradiction: Younger NFL Fans Fall in Line, But More than A Third Would Still Risk the Threat for an NFL Career

Q
Assume for a moment, that a genie offers you the following proposition: You will be given the opportunity to live or re-live your life with the ability to become an All-Pro NFL player, recognized as one of the best at your position in the league and compensated accordingly. You will enjoy a lucrative 10 year career that enables you to retire from the game with both celebrity and lifetime financial security. However, at age 65, you will begin to show the onset of dementia. Do you accept the genie's offer?

"The issue of concussions in football is among the most serious problems that must be dealt with"

Quarterback of the Future? NFL Fans Favor Mariotta

Q Who will ultimately have the better NFL career?

■ Marcus Mariotta
■ Jameis Winston

Other Fan Attitudes: Less Patience with Coaches; More Scrutiny of Athlete Behavior; Greater Reverence for the In Venue Experience
